Single Source Solution, Turnkey Project Management Services Provided By The CMM Group

For companies installing new ovens and dryers, energy recovery systems, air pollution control systems or production machinery or those interested in retrofitting or rebuilding existing equipment, The CMM Group provides complete engineered turnkey design, installation and project management services. Depending upon individual project requirements, these services can include product design and fabrication, facilities engineering, materials management and procurement, installation, start-up and on-going maintenance.

When a Fortune 100 company selected CMM for the turnkey design/build/installation of emission control systems at four different plants, a broad range of services were included involving assistance with permits, site preparation, on-site supervision, civil work (concrete, structural steel and access road design), ductwork, control and power wiring, plumbing, dust collection hoods and cartridge systems, landscaping and compliance testing.

Backed by an experienced staff with many years of air pollution control experience in many different industries, The CMM Group provides turnkey design, fabrication, installation and project management services for custom ovens and dryers, thermal and catalytic oxidizers, rotary concentrators, energy recovery systems, dust collectors, permanent total enclosures, production machinery and ancillary systems.
